FILL IN THE GAP

WK 4 MON

Read the sentences and choose the correct word or words to fill the gap.

The biologist claimed that humans had _____ from apes – and also used the idea of a 'tree of life' to illustrate that all species on Earth had evolved from a common ancestor.

The _____, in London, England, is home to a vast collection of Darwin's work.

In 1836, he returned home from his travels and set about comparing and analysing the different _____ he had found.

When he was a teenager, in 1825, Darwin enrolled to study _____ at the University of Edinburgh, in Scotland.

Darwin later published his now celebrated and _____ book, On the Origin of Species, in 1859.

The branches on the tree show _____ relationships between different species.

After a recommendation from one of his Cambridge professors, he was offered the chance to work as a naturalist on a five-year voyage aboard _____.

He is remembered today for his _____ and revolutionary theories.

It created some controversy and outrage as it _____ many religious beliefs at the time.

It's not often that a biologist is described as _____ – but Charles Darwin was just that.

Instead, he went to the world-famous _____, in England, to study theology: the nature of god and religious belief.

He was amazed by the unusual and fascinating new _____ he encountered.

Darwin's life and career took a significant turn in _____.

Charles Robert Darwin was born in 1809 in _____, in Shropshire, England.

Some of Darwin's thoughts were based on his observations of finches from the Galápagos_____, close to Ecuador.