

Bubble Closure - Writing
Day 6

How to change your narrative into a recount from the boy's point of view

Original

The unusual boy steadily rose to his feet, shivering at the sight that met his gentle blue eyes, which were searching the chaos on the floor.

Boys point of view

I steadily rose to my feet and, looking around me, shivered at the sight that met my eyes. I searched the chaos on the floor for clues about the cause of this devastation but found nothing. Was this me?